

DAPL'S Service User Involvement Group

DAPL ethos is that we value our service users. We embrace their knowledge and experience. This is why we developed the hub user involvement group. The hub meets on a weekly basis in DAPL's premises in Kirkcaldy. We provide a safe supportive environment for people to meet, to share their own experiences, support each other, get advice and information and be involved in service development both locally and nationally, by participating in a range of forums. The group strive to represent service users needs, promote and help to potentially develop "user" friendly services. Personal development and training are seen as being central to the role of service user involvement.

Through the peer support group people are more able to cope, grow and make positive choices in their lives. It is a safe space for drug users, who are not in touch with other services to discuss and support others to look at their choices in all aspects of their lives.

DAPL constantly include service users in all aspects of our services.
